What Makes All-of-us Express Special

We learn responsibility. We have tons of fun. We respect each other. We discover new skills. This is a place where we want everyone to feel welcomed, accepted, and know they’re important.

Everyone Works Hard and Learns Everything

Everybody works on both sides of the curtain.
Backstage, our youth learn how to run lights and sound, and work on props, costumes, sets and makeup.
Children can also help out by being ushers or working on our lobby displays—among many other things.
On stage, our youth work hard learning their lines and blocking, and how everyone’s role is crucial to creating the best possible production.
Every child who has a role on stage must next serve on a crew of their choice. This ensures that everyone has a fair chance to learn everything that All-of-us Express has to offer.

Thumbelina

Adapted by Vera Morris
Once there was a girl no taller than a thumb—Thumbelina—and the world is fraught with dangers for one so small. If only Thumbelina can find Prince, the boy who promised to take her to the Land of the Little People.
